On   Sunday   mornings   Yong-Sun   Nah   of Sungnam,   Kyunggi-do,   is   especially   busy   because he   has   to   hurry   to   the   Sungshim

Orphanage,   where   78   little   friends   are   waiting.

First   he   goes   to   a   market   and   buys ingredients   for   bread;   then   he   gets   on   his motorcycle.   When   he   arrives,   the   children greet   him   excitedly.   He   goes   to   the orphanage   bakery,   which   he   furnished   at   a cost   of $2,500,   and   bakes   cakes   and   "the best   bread   in   the   world."   For   30   years, Yong-Sun has been a baker. One day at the bakery, he saw a few children in the window. He felt a pang in his heart and remembered the orphans in his hometown.
